Empowering Individuals and Advancing Businesses

Goodwill Southern California's first priority is helping people in need find sustainable employment. As one of the leading non-profit brands in the world, we maintain a large network of businesses, community partners and government agencies. This network allows us to match qualified talent with employers looking to hire. Last year we placed thousands of individuals in employment throughout Southern California. And our specialty is preparing and placing those with the most significant disabilities and vocational challenges, including veterans, the homeless, ex-offenders, mature workers and at-risk youth.
